constructing curriculum concerns school board

With the monumental task of making the policies that govern the students in the Ellwood Area School District, the local school board involved itself in the many phases of community life that dealt with school matters.

Headed by newly elected officers James Fusco, president, and Melvin Caplan, vice president, the school board made decisions involving policy and curriculum. Filling staff vacancies occurring in January and constructing the all-important budget were other duties of the board.

New tax office served both working students and community. Anthony Buzzelli and Mr. Joseph Ferrara

long-range planning challenges administrators

Long-range planning and the important area of public relations occupied Dr. Clarence Long, superintendent of schools, and Mr. Charles Barnhart, director of instruction. The staff of the Ellwood City District Administration also had the job of balancing the budget and establishing school policies.

With the promotion of Mr. L. Butler Hennon to the post of administrative assistant, the administration continued to keep pace with mounting responsibilities by augmenting its staff.

principals assume the role of part-time parent

To effectively direct school affairs once again became the task of Mr. Arthur Taggart, principal, along with Mr. Charles Wallace and Mr. Dominick Magnifico, assistant principals.

As new athletic director, Mr. Wallace, who was also in charge of extracurricular activities, organized the homeroom intramural program.

Mr. Magnifico, assisted by Mr. Wallace, continued to schedule and reschedule classes as well as discipline students.

Performing their jobs as a unit, these men created an atmosphere helpful to the students' pursuit of academic and extracurricular activities.

Modern technology finally caught up with Lincoln High as the punched IBM card took its place in the high school office. The IBM machine recorded the attendance of each student; however, the computer could not possibly do all the work.

The tardy student made friends with Mrs. Jay Cherol while visitors to Mr. Taggart's office first encountered Mrs. Norma Larusso. Miss Mary Buda answered telephone inquiries, and Miss Cindy Pishioneri questioned those wanting or required to see Mr. Magnifico and Mr. Wallace.

guidance counselors inspire individual progress

Under the glass top of the desk in Miss LaRue Craig's office are the pictures of numerous graduates who, in appreciation for her help, send their former guidance counselor their pictures. The job of Miss Craig and the other guidance counselors, Mr. William Spellman and Miss Letha Baringer, was that of plotting career prospects for every student.

In doing this, guidance personnel administered tests, such as the college board, ACT, PSAT, and NEDT, and scheduled talks with representatives from colleges, nursing schools, trade schools, and the armed services.

patient staff pacifies students' aches and pains

Playing an essential role in the life of every student, the medical department provided speedy and efficient treatment throughout the school year. With the aid of modern equipment, Mrs. Lois Richards and Mrs. Eileen Bamford, school nurses, tested vision and hearing while Dr. Jack Brooks and Dr. George Plunkett conducted physical and dental examinations, respectively. All essential information was filled on permanent records for each student. As always, the entire medical staff was adequately prepared to cope with every problem, whether large or small.

communication proves ultimate aim in english

". . . Hear O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord . . . ." Mrs. Sally Shaffer headed the religious literature course offered to senior high students this year. The course attempted an in-depth study of three major religions: Christianity, Judaism, and Islam.

As in the past, the senior high curriculum included the general English course and college preparatory English, both of which stressed a wide survey of American and British literature. In preparation for the demands of college freshmen composition courses, the college bound wrote weekly compositions.

language appreciation breaks cultural barriers

Hola! Bonjour! or Guten Tag! were familiar greetings in the halls as courses in Spanish, French and German became more than rote and memorization. Films, slides, tapes, and records varied the learning process for language students. Through clubs, amateur linguists partook in fiestas, banquets, and masquerades exploring the tradition of foreign lands.

Knowledge of a foreign language is an essential element of one's liberal education, and the language department provided a wide scope of foreign study.

experience, innovation enhance music and art

As students watched Mr. William Croissant and Mr. Fred Perino stop band rehearsals to admonish a musician, they began to realize what a flawless performance involves. Voices became musical instruments as the experience of Mr. Paul Gehm and the innovations of Mrs. Alice Davies combined to make the choral department an example of Lincoln harmony.

The art classes of Mr. Sam Panico explored a new area of visual communications, experimental film-making, while Mr. George Jinar's arts and crafts classes developed dexterity and creativity.

science fuses theory with fact during classroom

Typical sensations in the science department: the touch of rough and smooth leaves; the pungent odor of mixed chemicals; the crash of glass thermometers and tubes.

Sophomores searched for the elusive gingko leaf, juniors diligently attacked perplexing physics problems, and seniors became amazed at their newly discovered ability of creating compounds.

Continuing a project which began three years ago, the advanced science program provided further concentration on inductive techniques in the fields of electronics and chemistry.

of mathematics challenge inquisitive minds

To the dismay of many and to the delight of some, the extensive math curriculum offered subjects ranging from business math to introductory analysis. Business math could be elected by any student interested in a secretarial or business career.

Algebra served as the launching pad into the world of modern math, and in plane and solid geometry, students learned how to prove theorems.

Algebra III and trig students used their extensive math backgrounds to prepare for introductory analysis, a comprehensive review of the entire math program.

Students electing the business course of study brushed the surface of office life in their general business class. Sophomores studied Typing I, Shorthand I, and Bookkeeping I, learning the importance of speed and accuracy. Juniors and seniors rose to on-the-job training, taking Shorthand II, office practice, and economics.

"Connie Creep" became "Connie Coed" as home living, cooking, and sewing classes transformed a mannequin from Raggedy Ann to socialite. Cooking and sewing are traditionally feminine pursuits, but this year a crew of senior high girls invaded the boys' craft class to mold expressive creations. Tradition was not altered, however, in Mr. Donald Karasack's classes. He instructed only boys in the art of mechanical drawing.

practicing job skills or drivers' training proves advantageous to many

"brake . . . BRAKE! . . . you're going too fast . . . ." These seemed to be the only phrases driving students heard as Mr. Frank Aloi and Mr. Omer Newton used tact and patience to prevent the first time behind the wheel from becoming a traumatic experience.

Just as drivers' education introduced students to a new experience, so also did Mr. Lou Gatto's Occupational Work Program. Derived from the needs of the sudents, the program made use of on the job training, with participants moving to new job stations after eight weeks.

The "Green Berets" of Lincoln, the Special Service administrators, performed many behind-the-scenes tasks.

Headed by Mrs. Ruth Mizik, the library department acquired more volumes and kept the learning center open Monday and Wednesday nights for more study time.

The audio-visual complex, headed by Mr. Andrew Bodensky, planned for the future. Promises included television in every district school and closed circuit telecasts.

Dr. Alfred Bish, the school psychologist, rounded out the "Green Berets" with the tasks of detecting and solving students' problems.

health and gym co-ordinate minds and bodies

"Sit up, touch your toes, and back," reverberated through the girls' gym as Miss Mary Kuben and Mrs. Katherine Ansell instructed girls in the skills of physical fitness. Meanwhile, the boys continually knocked heads in various athletic activities under the direction of Mr. James Ansell.

The job of making students aware of personal hygiene went to Miss Jean Calhoun and Mr. Howard Oberfeitinger, health class teachers. In the absence of Miss Calhoun, Mrs. Brian MacMurdo taught health for the better part of the first semester, while Mr. Oberfeitinger fulfilled the duties as physiology instructor.

1969 marked the Silver Anniversary of Lincoln High School's Choral Department. Under Mr. Paul Gehm, music instructor for the past twenty-five years, the school choirs grew both in number and stature.

With its inception in 1944, the entire department consisted of only three choirs. Since then, however, Mr. Gehm has added Capers, Concert Choir and junior high choirs to the musical program.

concert choir learns during holiday season that

Concert Choir's Christmas meant sharing with others. Many groups throughout the city enjoyed the carols of this select group. A wider audience applauded the annual Christmas Gift concert on December 15 and 16, which was especially meaningful for director Mr. Paul Gehm, who presented highlights from his past 25 years of Christmas concerts.

After the holiday season, the choir prepared for their tour at Eastern Baptist College in Philadelphia. There, for the second year, they presented a concert during their three day stay.

May brought the spring concert, an annual event anticipated by school and community alike, which was concluded with the highly acclaimed "Battle Hymn."

capers' invitation to perform for baptist college

Monday night practices, country club appearances, yuletide carolings, and the competent direction of Mr. Paul Gehm prepared the small, select Choral Capers for the annual Christmas Gift concert. Fred Waring's arrangement of "The Night Before Christmas," complete with Santa and a family, renditions of "Do You Hear What I Hear?" and "Silent Night" were part of their performance.

The only feminine touch to the Christmas Concert was added by the senior girls' choir. Artificial snow enhanced the beauty of "White Christmas" as the senior girls sang the old Bing Crosby favorite, along with "Christmas Hymn," "The Echo Song," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Senior Mixed Choir chimed old favorites such as "Silver Bells," at the annual Christmas Gift Concert. "Angels We Have Heard On High," "Masters In This Hall," and "O Ye Joyful People," composed the remainder of their program which introduced the senior high portion of the concert.

Soon after their Christmas performance, the choir began work on their spring concert, with their goal set to make it the best in the 25 years of the choral department's history. The melodious sound of "Exodus," "Round and Round," "I Believe," and "The Holy Lord God," did their part in contributing to the standing ovation received at the concert's finale.

Voices of the combined choirs blended in the singing of the "Gloria," bringing an end to the Christmas Concert.

Accompanist—William Crowley and Susan Ritchie

In their second independent choral concert, the junior high choirs enjoyed a wide range of musical experiences by presenting classical, spiritual, and popular music. A classical by Beethoven and a rhythmic spiritual called "Set Down Servant" joined "What the World Needs Now," "Windy," and "Guatanamera" on the program.

Under their new director, Mrs. Alice Davies, the ninth grade choir innovated a girls ensemble, which presented a medley of songs from "The Sound of Music" at their spring concert.

The young choristers also participated in the annual Christmas concert, presenting Handel's classical arrangement of "Joy to the World" and the cheerful "Santa Claus is Coming to Town."

drills distinguish this year's marching blue band

They say that practice makes perfect, and perfection was the goal that the Lincoln Blue Band strived to achieve. Under the direction of Mr. William Croissant, they performed tirelessly at football and basketball games, as well as at holiday parades such as the Thanksgiving parade in Pittsburgh. The musicians also gave several formal performances, such as the mid-winter and spring concerts, at which they displayed their talents, in many classics as well as popular medleys. Along with approximately fifty other bands, the Blue Band performed at Penn State during the halftime ceremonies of the Penn State vs. Kansas State game.

A band banquet was held in December, at which the band members were honored and received letters, jackets, and blankets.

majorette activities

Facing a new sponsor, the majorettes gingerly marched onto the field. But as time progressed, the girls developed respect and admiration for their new leader, Miss Kitty Ziegler, and served her and the Blue Band with devotion. The twirlers raised money early in the year to buy their own jackets. The majorettes added a special spice to the band as they exuberantly twirled their batons.

Special attractions included feature twirler Mark Gearhart and Pam Zona, who twirled with fire.

The group marched faithfully in rain or sunshine and was on hand for the Penn State versus Kansas State game at University Park. In addition to practicing with the band, majorettes rehearsed on their own to prepare difficult routines for the enjoyment of the crowds.

Adding excitement to the band was speciality twirler Mark Gearhart.

drill team, pep band lend

Countless hours of drill routine and strenuous practice during the hot sweltering days of late August comprised the beginning of yearly activities for the color guard and the newly formed drill team. These exhausting days at Band Camp were faithfully attended and the two units emerged anxious for football season to begin.

Proudly marching for the first time, the drill team experienced the honor of representing their school, especially at away games. Under the supervision of Dave Jeckavitch, the eight members ignored sore legs and arms and slowly became a fine-looking, high-stepping group.

Sparked with ideas for routines, members created new and original steps. The color guard proudly displayed the banner, arms, and flags at football games and parades.

Also under the direction of Mr. Williams was the Stage Crew, whose major duties consisted of handling the lighting and special effects for choral and band concerts, plays, and community productions performed in Lincoln's auditorium.

A recent recipient of certification as an instructional media specialist from the University of Pittsburgh, Mr. Andrew Bodensky supervised the Audio-Visual Club. Kept busy throughout the year, A-V repaired and provided projectors, phonographs, and films for the rest of the school.

dance club sets lincoln students in the groove

Getting together with a special boy, working out to the sound of soul music, and standing outside Johnny's for hours . . . these combined to form the theme of the weekly Friday night dances sponsored by dance club.

Members of Dance Club took turns working at the door, selling refreshments, and acting as DJ.

New discs were purchased, as well as door-prizes, through treasury funds made from dance pass sales and admission charges. Hal Brown, a disc jockey from Pittsburgh radio station, WAMO, provided entertainment at the annual Christmas Alumni dance.

The club, under their sponsors, Mr. George Reese and Mr. Gerald Rossman, made field trips and saw various singers throughout the year. Concluding their activities, Dance Club members held a banquet at the Garden Gate restaurant.

hi-y operates hectic football concession stands

In conjunction with the YMCA, the Hi-Y club worked diligently in an effort to be of service to the community. Locally, the club sold refreshments at basketball and football contests, and held numerous car washes.

Attending the annual Hi-Y Sports Spectacular, members competed with other Hi-Y clubs in volleyball, basketball, softball, swimming, art and a speech contest for future orators. The biggest event of the Hi-Y year was the annual event, a trip to Harrisburg for the state convention. In this event, the Hi-Y took the place of state representatives as a model legislature.

Whether on their frequent trips or at home, the organization, under the sponsorship of Mr. David Mydock, has created and maintained high standards of Christian character in all its many endeavors.

Amidst the gurgle of running water and the squishy feel of a soapy sponge, Tri-Hi-Y began its activities with a car wash. Following this initial function, members participated in a Chinese auction. Screams of consternation arose as members discovered that cherished items such as Paul Newman posters and hair curling kits were up for bid.

Other meetings consisted of trick-or-treating for UNICEF and preparing decorations for their November record hop. "Beyond Autumn's Rainbow" emerged as a fantastic fall foliage in the cafeteria with co-chairmen Kay Stephenson, Phyllis Miesel, and crew creating the autumn atmosphere.

During Christmas, Tri-Hi-Yers visted McGuire's Home, donating hand-made stuffed animals to the children. Other involvements included attending two different conventions at Harrisburg with Hi-Y, a ski weekend in January and a field trip in May.

Tri-Hi-Y also participated in the Sports Spectacular held in Butler, a competition with other schools in basketball, swimming, track, and softball.

club presidents meet informally

Many times called the "inter-club coordinator," the Club Council met together to work out those problems common to all school clubs. An organizational springboard, the Council was confronted by ideas which concerned all the clubs.

The representatives of the 26 activities, under the sponsorship of assistant principal Charles Wallace, were also called upon to help in the area of community affairs.

Frequently working with the local Jaycees group, the club presidents helped plan and sell tickets for the Ellwood City "Battle of the Bands" contest.

buckets, sponges and y-teens attract many cars

A candlelight ceremony held in October marked the beginning of another active year for the members of Y-Teens. Officers trained at the annual convention held at Bethany College, worked with sponsors Mrs. Phyllis Engel and Miss Mary Ann Kennedy, leading the club in the beginning preparations for their record hop, "Land of Christmas Dreams." Their efforts at countless work meetings and bake sales became evident as the couples entered the cafeteria transformed into a toyland fantasy. Well-known disc-jockey, Hal Brown from Pittsburgh station WAMO, provided the musical entertainment, fascinating those attending the dance with the "sound of soul."

This year, the club sponsored a needy child overseas for the first time, and an additional activity was the sponsorship of Good Fellowship Week. Guest speakers, such as Mr. Sam Timpano with his program on Spanish customs, brightened the monthly meetings.

The semi-formal dance, held in the cafeteria on April 18, highlighted the spring activities for the freshmen and sophomores.

Character. Scholarship. Leadership. Service. These four creeds led the National Honor Society through all their activities.

N.H.S. members, inducted last year and again the second semester of this year, set the example for all other organizations. All members were required to maintain a 3.0 average throughout the year.

N.H.S.'ers were called upon to tutor senior high students, to sell candy apples at the football games, and to tend the book store.

The group took a sightseeing trip to Pittsburgh, viewing KDKA, Hienz Chapel, and the Pittsburgh Press. A winter tea honored alumni, who spoke on college life. Even with the lengthy illness of co-sponsor Miss Jean Calhoun, N.H.S. fulfilled its duties with Mr. Arthur Taggart at the helm.

Students outstanding in baseball, basketball, football, track, and golf, who had earned the blue "E," automatically became members of Varsity Club. The Lincoln letter symbolized long hours of practice, hard work, and desire. Athletes wore it proudly, supporting and participating in the club's activities.

Sponsoring the traditional Senior-Faculty game was the club's major project. In order to further augment the club's treasury, the lettermen held a dance under the sponsorship of Mr. Don "Ducky" Costa. Held at the Catholic Center in December, "Happiness is a Varsity Dance" attracted students, alumni, and faculty. Faculty members Mrs. Costa, Mrs. Ionta, and Mrs. Christy supplied plentiful refreshments, including sloppy joes.

jr. council exercises parliamentary procedures

Taking their first steps into the realm of student government were the young legislators of the Junior High Student Council. The members voiced the opinions and ideas of their fellow students and represented them on various committees. Early in the year, members acted as ushers during the annual Open House. Maintaining bulletin boards and sponsoring a lost and found department were other involvements of the Junior Student Council throughout the year.

The Council showed support for junior high sports by designing programs and selling refreshments at each home game, and by sponsoring buses to the away games. To encourage enthusiasm for sports, they conducted junior high pep rallies.

At Christmas time, members collected clothes for the Mars Children's Home and decorated both the school and Crescent Place.

Towards the close of the year, the Council held the annual talent assembly and the awards assembly for those junior high students who had distinguished themselves in some way.

sr. council mediates student problems

Composed of one representative from each homeroom, Senior High Student Council, with sponsor Miss LaRue Craig, served as the liaison between the administration and the student body. Cooperating with the administration, the council worked to revise the outdated school dress code and made periodic evaluations of the cafeteria.

The Student Council also was active in community affairs. As their annual Christmas project, they aided local families in enjoying the season by conducting a canned goods drive.

Officers of the group toured Riverside High School and met with Student Council officers from that nearby institution. This meeting paved the way for better relations with the Beaver County School, and both councils, as a result, decided to make tours of other area schools.

It was also through Student Council efforts that American Field Service program once again became a part of high school life with the additon of Piero Donelli to Lincoln's enrollment.

key club ushers at concerts and athletic events

Smashed to bits by aggressive students, a dilapidated, but still useful, red car made the annual "Beat Neca" bonfire a huge success. The bonfire and other projects undertaken by the Key Club, through the leadership of their new sponsor, Mr. Dennis Norman, made this year one of its most active in ECHS history.

In accordance with the bonfire, the Kiwanis Club initiated a new tradition in late November, as they staged the first senior "Pulp Bowl" football game.

Working as ushers at each football game was another activity of the Key Clubbers and gathering Christmas trees after the holidays also occupied the members. In additon, the club sponsored an invitational basketball tourney late in the cage season, which proved to be a big success. The selling of silver mugs supplemented the club treasury and enabled the members to attend the annual Key Club Convention in the Poconos.

creative authors produce contemporary ideas

Literary rebel Thom Tammaro and patient proofreader Sam Esposito were part of the story behind the production of the Continuum.

With ink-stained hands and type-worn fingers, the culturally minded members of the Literary Club once again started work on the school's literary publication Continuum. Under the able sponsorship of Mrs. Gloria Ionta and Mr. Philip DeVinney, members of the club worked diligently proofreading, typing, stenciling, and meeting deadlines, which enabled them to publish the magazine three times a semester.

Incorporating a system of rotating editors, under a supervisory editor, Thom Tammaro, the club worked to instill initiative in staff members.

Besides working on the magazine, the officers planned a variety of entertaining meetings which included poetry readings, book reviews, and films. The aspiring writers also indulged in field trips, including one to Westminster College early in the year to hear a lecture presented by accomplished author, Pearl S. Buck.

Literary Club emphasized the importance of intellectual growth aside from that of the regular high school academic program.

Garbed in colorful costumes, masqueraders attended the first project of the Spanish Club—the annual Halloween Party. The piñata, highlight of the fiesta, endured quite a few pokes before the members were showered with its many delicacies.

Mr. Timpano, a former Spanish student teacher, showed informative slides on his stay in Spain at one of the fall meetings. Club members spent an afternoon in Pittsburgh viewing the musical, Man of La Mancha, based on the Spanish classic, Don Quixote.

Christmas brought a combined party with all the language clubs participating. Comparisons were made of different customs during the festivities.

Spring brought the club's banquet, a source of Spanish gourmet dishes for the students.

humor abounds with french club masqueraders

Through their many programs, French Club caught the interest of students and teachers alike. One of the most active clubs in the school, members amused and entertained themselves with such activities as games, speeches, movies, parties, and learning traditional French songs and customs. The October meeting was highlighted by a Halloween party, with the members dressing up in costume, and gathering to carve pumpkins and compete for prizes. Each and every member was rewarded with donuts and cider.

At Christmas time, the club joined forces with the Latin, Spanish, and German Clubs for a gala Yuletide celebration. In February, a traditional Mardi Gras party was held, the members once more disguising themselves and bringing the pre-Lenten season to a festive close.

Mr. Robert Galvin, French teacher and club sponsor, enriched French students' knowledge of the language, assisting them in their quest for communication. Through French Club, the students learned something of Gallic life, customs, and folklore.

german club commemorates deutsch heritage

A newcomer to the school's list of clubs was the German Club, organized this past year. The new club immediately proved itself to be an active one. Open to second year German students, the group involved themselves in a study of their favorite language at every meeting. Visitors with German backgrounds lectured members.

German club members, in addition to being an integral part of the all-languages Christmas party, also toured the community during the Christmas vacation singing carols in German to shut-ins and the town's elderly in Crescent Place.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Jacqueline Weisbaker, the students gained an insight to customs of Deutschland. Students not only learned the old world language, but also studied the traditions of the common modern day German citizen.

Youthful voices of German students singing carols were heard throughout the community on Christmas Eve.

Gods and goddesses with ornate costumes replaced witches and goblins at Latin Club's Halloween party.

"I am the spirit of Latin II. Through me, you will learn of the adventures of Jason and his mighty Argonauts and the conquests of Julius Caesar in Gaul."

Through the four spirits of Latin, members were initiated into the club under the authority of high priest Mike Evanson.

Abandoning the language club's traditional costumes, Latin Club members, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Sara Beatrice, dressed as Roman gods and goddesses for the feast of Halloween. They also planned a Christmas party along with French and Spanish clubs to celebrate Saturnalia and to learn the customs of other cultures. In the spring, a picnic held at Ewing Park climaxed the club's activities.

Initiation day was a painful one for embarrassed new Art Club members, who passed the day of torture attired with painted faces and garish outfits.

Although Rembrandts, Picassos, and Michelangelos they were not, their works were viewed with as much enthusiasm, when Art Club attended Edinboro State College's Art Convention. Touring the campus and art department, club members observed future sculptors and painters in several classes, including sketching and art history.

When Halloween came around, Art Club members transformed Ellwood stores into eerie spectacles. Sometimes, however, it was difficult to discover which contained more paint, the windows or the artists.

Even the Neca dummy displayed in blazing colors the talent of the young artists at the annual bonfire in November.

As the spirit of the yuletide season approached, club members added their own bit of sparkle to the community by decorating the Municipal Building Christmas tree.

Involvement was the key word for FTA, as qualified members busied themselves teaching elementary students at Hartman and other local schools when regular teachers were attending professional meetings.

Miss Anna Pietrandrea, new sponsor, and the future teachers undertook field trips to learn more about their chosen profession. In October, members traveled to Clarion State College for the Pennsylvania State Education Association Convention, and in November, to the University of Pittsburgh, Mount Mercy College, Duquesne University, and Chatham College.

Incorporated into the club's activities was a new "buddy teaching" program, where an FTA member was paired with a teacher in whose subject he held an interest.

Provided with such tasks as correcting papers and arranging files, future teachers soon found that teaching was a strenuous but rewarding occupation.

As final projects, members held a banquet in May to honor all the seniors, and newly elected officers attended a Future Teachers Convention in Harrisburg.

Seventy ambitious actors composed the Junior Dramatics Club. The club's new sponsor, Miss Ann Koziar, broke away from tradition by doing away with tryouts, and proposing that the only requirement be that of attending meetings regularly.

During their first year as dramatics club members, junior thespians studied the histrionic techniques of voice projection and enunciation, to be put to use in their production of "Two's A Crowd," a three act comedy by Paul Parkhirst.

With a broader membership, details could be attended to without strain. Talents were combined as business-minded members took charge of money matters, and those artistically inclined painted props, while others prepared for future roles.

Senior thespians under the direction of Mr. Robert Galvin presented three one-act plays instead of their usual one three-act play this year.

Brainerd Duffield's adaptation of the short story by Shirley Jackson, "The Lottery," became a reality on the auditorium stage as players portrayed a town which held an annual lottery to decide who would be the year's scapegoat. To the delight of the audience, a satire by Dorothy Brown, "Some of My Best Friends," and a farce by Jack Steele, "So the Jury Was Hung," were the comic offerings of Potpourri on March 21.

The popularity of the age-old game of chess proved itself again, as Chess Club more than doubled its membership, and added feminine competition with the admission of nine girls. The Lou Gatto-guided group, now in its second year, became more active with the enlarged membership.

Beginning in November, the Double Elimination Tournament continued through early spring. In April, a Grand Master of the entire club emerged.

Not neglecting duty to community, members visited Crescent Place Thursday nights, teaching the golden-agers intricacies of the game.

This year, opportunities opened for inter-school tournaments. Members for the first time matched wits with Riverside, Laurel, and Mars High school players.

Saturday morning may seem an odd time for a club meeting, but for members of Bowling Club it was perfectly normal as they competed individually for trophies for the highest league average, game, and series at Park Lanes.

The ten teams competed vigorously to be one of the top two squads and receive a trophy at the end of the year. Each week, the bowlers with the top average and top single game were rewarded with cartons of pop.

Every year, trophies are given in the singles and doubles Christmas tournament and the spring singles and doubles tournament. Also added this year were the Christmas scrub matches with Riverside students and Lincoln faculty.

Representing the Ellwood City bowlers at the State Bowling Tournament in Harrisburg was Margaret Music.

The members enjoyed the help and advice of Mr. Eugene Boschini, the club sponsor, who supervised the action amid the roaring sound of rolling balls, crashing pins, and the general hubbub caused by teenagers.

"We care" was the cry of the Lincoln Echo staff and new adviser, Miss Jeanne Gibbons, as they ventured into one of the paper's most successful years. Publishing the school newspaper bi-monthly and on special occasions, the Echo improved with each issue. The Ellwood City Ledger complimented the Echo in an editorial. A different format consisting of a modern nameplate, larger pictures, and simplified headline style was used, bringing a "new" appearance to an "old" Echo.

Rotating editors for each issue provided room for advancement and gave a desire to work harder. With all copy turned in to the printer, students began the next issue. Al Wilson and Ken Turner attended a press conference in Pittsburgh, where cartoonist Bill Keane spoke and five junior Journalism II students attended a workshop at Columbia University in New York.

Photo Crew spent many hours in the dark this year, as they processed photographs for the Ellwoodian, Echo, and administrative needs.

To the darkroom, newly located near the Ellwoodian room, came many new members, as underclassmen flocked in force to take part in thjs club, sponsored by new adviser, Miss Jeanne Gibbons.

Shutterbugs John Goehring, a freshman, and Marshall Cooper, a junior, won Scholastic Photography Awards for their entries in the contest held at Kaufmann's in Pittsburgh.

Serving a dual role as a member of both Photo Crew and Ellwoodian staff was junior John Flecher, who printed photos and helped out wherever needed on the yearbook.

under pressure we ask, 'what is an ellwoodian?'

Cool and collected, the new Ellwoodian staff discussed the theme for the 1969 yearbook. They wondered about the pitying looks the 1968 staff were giving them. Five months later, amidst cups of copy, job 451, and temporary insanity during the first deadline, they welcomed any sympathy.

The pressure began back in June when Sandi Bartolomeo, Denise Caminite, Margie Jeannette, Donna Badger, and adviser Miss Jeanne Gibbons attended the nation's largest publications workshop at Ohio University.

On the first Thursday of the school year, an original skit starring the staff highlighted the magazine kick-off assembly. "Film Follies" netted $13,309.41.

Hours of evening work began as deadline followed deadline. The 1969 Ellwoodian came into being, boasting 32 additional pages and bearing the theme, "Nothing is quite your own, yet this is you."

intense pressures,

Putting together a rare combination of hustle, desire, and teamwork, the Wolverines copped their second WPIAL baseball title in the last six years. Under the guidance of Bill Spellman, head coach, and Bob Timmerman, assistant coach, the Wolverine nine concluded the '68 season with a remarkable record of 26 wins and two defeats. Finishing undefeated in Section 6 play, Ellwood's only two setbacks came during the exhibition season, as they bowed to Beaver and New Brighton.

On both offense and defense, Ellwood had more than its share of stars. While the Wolverine sluggers were driving in a 180 run total, the Ellwood hurlers held their opposition to only 48 total runs throughout the season. The pitching staff consisted of Rich Lawson, who displayed an 11-0 record on the year; Jerry Bukac, finishing 9-1; and Vic Sharek, who wound up with a 5-0 season.

Dave Blazin dived safely back to third in the third inning against North Hills.

Leading the Ellwood hitters were Sharek, who pounded a .471 average over the year; Dave Blazin, who batted .462; Don Wick, who rapped out a .460 average; and Rick Smith,who hit .358.

Ellwood's fantastic comeback in the first round of the playoff games with Center Township highlighted the suspenseful year. Rebounding from a 3–0 fifth inning deficit, Wayne Thornhill doubled with bases loaded to knot the score. In the seventh inning, Thornhill singled to drive Rick Smith in from third for Ellwood's winning score.

In the second round of the playoffs, the Wolverines again found themselves in a tight contest against tough Canon-McMillan. Behind 1–0, Ray Smith led the Wolverine attack, driving in all three Ellwood runs, including a line drive home run into center field.

But the suspense was still not over. After breezing by North Hills in the semi-finals, 6–2, at Forbes Field, the Wolverines went down to the wire with Waynesburg, 1–0. Rich Lawson pitched a superlative four hitter and a slow grounder by Dave Blazin scored Ellwood's lone run in the fifth inning. Ray Smith was clearly the star in the playoffs, going 9 for 11, and blasting a home run, a triple, a double, and six singles.

Blazin and Smith, for their superlative efforts on the baseball diamond, received full scholarships to the University ot Iowa. Smith also was picked in the major league draft by the Cleveland Indians.

The Wolverines also had five of their number named to the WPIAL All-Section squad: catcher, Dave Blazin; infielder, Ray Smith; outfielder, Wayne Thornhill; and pitchers, Rich Lawson and Jerry Bukac, were those honored. Two other players received honorable mentions: first baseman, Don Wick; outfielder, Del Schuster; and for the fourth time in the past five years, Bill Spellman was named Coach of the Year.

coach kirklin restores

Restoring respectability to Ellwood City track, Coach Duane Kirklin's thinclads stormed to a 5-2 dual meet record and the most successful campaign in the past eight years, losing only to New Castle and Farrell.

Sophomore Milroy Stevenson experienced a tremendous season as he shattered the existing long jump mark, earning him a spot in the WPIAL top ten. Milroy surpassed the effort of 440 record holder Frank Poholsky by speeding a 52.8 time.

Steve Haklo, Dennis Neghiu, Elisha Shakespeare, and Stevenson broke the 880 relay mark as they recorded a 1:33.3 time. The existing mile relay record established in 1959 was broken by Phil Labor, Carter Smith, Jim Clyde and anchor man Stevenson, as they recorded a 3:37.9 clocking.

Senior John McElwain completed the dual meet campaign unbeaten in the two mile run as he shaved 19 seconds from his former time to turn in a 10:15.9 time. Paced by these record-breaking performances, the Wolverine tracksters can look forward to further success in 1969.

The 1969 cheerleaders had a new look this year. Including sophomores in their formation and adopting a crisp, precise, new style due to their efforts at summer camp in West Virginia were the reforms initiated by Miss Michal Meyer, cheerleader sponsor.

Miss Meyer also aided cheerleaders in providing student transportation to the games, selling mums for homecoming, organizing pep rallies, and conducting a "Mr. Crazy Legs Contest."

Several varsity cheerleaders held key positions in their classes. Cindy Tomeo and Maureen MacDonald were secretaries of the senior and sophomore class respectively. Cindy Pisani and Trudy Houk were elected members of the 1969 Homecoming Court.

Recording the poorest won and lost record since George Jinar took over the head junior high coaching spot was this year's junior high eleven as they stumbled to a dismal one and four record.

The juniors dropped a 13-6 contest in the opener against George Washington. Frank Colao took in a beautiful scoring pitch from Gary DeLoia to account for the Little Wolves lone score in that ballgame.

The following week against Sharon at Ewing Park, the juniors experienced their most successful day of the season as they ran roughshod over the visiting Bengals, rolling up a 36-6 score.

The Ellwood offense bogged down when Coach Jinar's gridders traveled to Butler, as Golden Tornado scored a 21-0 shutout over the Wolverines. The ensuing contest with powerful Ben Franklin Junior High proved even more disastrous as the Ellwood eleven received a sound 50-0 thrashing.

The charges of Jinar, Gatto, and DeCaro nearly finished their campaign on a winning note as they were denied a possible win by Farrell, 2-0, on a two point safety scored against them, giving the Wolves a cumulative one and four mark.

Paced by the all-around performance of senior Dave Petrella and the consistent scoring of all five starters, the golf team recorded its first section championship. The linkers went undefeated in exhibition and section play and ended with a 12-1 card. The Wolverines only loss came to Sharon in the first round of WPIAL playoffs.

Under the capable coaching of Carl "Rizzo" Mantz, the golfers opened with an exhibition victory over New Castle, 8½-7½. The Wolverines copped their initial section victory by blanking Riverside, 16-0. Blazing the Del-Mar course, senior Dave Petrella fired a 1969 school record against Rochester. The team medal of 386 was their lowest. Capturing the section title against Beaver Falls, the linkers went on to defeat Rochester and finish with a perfect section record. In WPIAL playoffs, the Wolverines defeated Center Township 9-7, but lost to Sharon 10-6 and were ousted from competition.

Dave Petrella, possibly Lincoln's greatest golfer, qualified for the WPIAL Individual Golf Tournament, and shot a respectable 83.

Cross-country was a new addition to the fall sports scene this year, and Mr. Duane Kirklin took over the responsibility of coaching the prospective harriers. There was an excellent interest shown in the sport as many candidates came out for the first practice.

Inexperience proved too much to overcome, however, as no runner placed under sixth in the dual meets with Ford City and Riverside. The cross-country team was hindered from the beginning because their practice season started late. Along with this, the runners had no home course and were forced to play all meets away. Despite these disadvantages, the junior varsity team turned in an encouraging season as they sprinted by Ford City and Riverside twice. The JV's only dropped one contest, that being a close loss to Beaver Falls.

The cross-country runners also gained valuable experiences by participating in the MAC Cross Country Championship at New Castle in late October. High placers in the meet were Gary Grimm, Arnold Casciato, Rick Trivilino, Dennis Herko, and George Sewall. Placing eighth out of ten in the section, the Wolverines finished above both Aliquippa and Beaver by considerable margins.

junior varsity shapes aspiring underclass talent

Frank Aloi's junior varsity recorded an overall mark of 9 and 11 while developing the talents of the sophomore and junior cagers for the rigors of future varsity competition. The Jays were 4 and 2 in exhibition play but slumped to 5 and 9 mark in Section competition.

In exhibition action, the reserves picked up wins over Center Township, Valley, Erie Tech and Coraopolis.They suffered losses at the hands of Beaver and Rochester.

The Jays opened their section play at Aliquippa and lost. Three more losses followed, Beaver Falls, Farrell, and Ambridge, before they were to win a game.

After the thrashing received at Ambridge the Wolves rebounded, beating Butler. The Jays had their ups and downs the rest of the season, with wins over Aliquippa, Ambridge, Butler, and Sharon highlighting their campaign.

Among the outstanding players for the Jays were juniors Rich Lawson, Dom D'Amico, and Dave Tammaro. Lending support were Ron Atkinson, Bill Flecher, and Todd McKim. Lawson, who led the squad in rebounding and scoring, scored 246 points. Tammaro was second with 176, and Atkinson and D'Amico followed with 171 and 137 respectively.

experienced wolverines find sporadic success

On the strength of a second half surge, the Wolverines secured a fourth place finish in the Section 3 standings.

An overtime loss to the Beaver Bobcats was the fate of the Wolverines in their initial outing of the season. Ellwood bounced back later in the week to nip Center High by a 66-63 margin. A clutch overtime win at Rochester ensued. The Valley High cagers disposed of the Wolverines next by an 81-51 score.

The Aliquippa Indians mauled the charges of Coach L. Butler Hennon in their first Section 3 encounter, 64-43 at Aliquippa. Ellwood picked up its first section triumph the following Friday, tripping the Beaver Falls Tigers by a 55-52 score. Junior forward Milroy Stevenson hooped 24 points to pace the winners.

The Wolverines next opposed undefeated Section leaders Farrell and the result was a disastrous 87-42 beating. The Steelers went on to top Section honors and finally the state title.

Dashield caught fire in the following contest against Ambridge, scoring 27 points as the Wolves copped their first Section win. Stevenson contributed 20 points and 23 rebounds. The final score of that game was a decisive 80-73 Ellwood win.

Led by Stevenson's 24 points, the Wolverines copped another win in their next outing as they dumped Butler 73-64.

The Wolverines, riding a two game win streak, traveled to Sharon, and nearly pulled an upset win. The host Bengals rallied in the last quarter to overtake the Wolverines and cop a 64-60 decision. Sharek came off the bench to throw in 19 markers.

Coach Hennon's charges dropped the ensuing contest to the Red Hurricanes by a narrow 62-61 margin.

Ellwood opened the second half of loop action against Aliquippa, losing 69-54, on the EC hardwood. Ellwood terminated one of their most futile weeks with a 76-64 loss to Beaver Falls.

Led by Dave Johnson's 22 points, the Farrell Steelers handed Ellwood a 70-51 setback. Dashield hooped 24.

Rebounding from the Farrell beating, Hennon revised the lineup and the Wolves began to jell. They knocked off the Bridgers by a 72-64 spread with Dashield hitting for a Section high of 31.

The Wolverines traveled to Butler and handed the winless Golden Tornadoes a 73-61 setback.

Dashield came through with 22 points in the Sharon game before a home town crowd, to become Lincoln's all-time leading scorer. Ellwood emerged a 75-52 winner in that game.

The Wolves ended the campaign with a solid 59-52 win over arch rival New Castle as Dashield padded his record with an 18 point effort, bringing his total to 997.

With the brilliant second half finish, the Wolverines managed to salvage a decent Section 3 record and instilled anticipation of better things to come.

A formidable press and a balanced offense typified all the junior high frays as the young Wolves went 14-4 overall and captured a 7-3 record in Section XIX.

With only two home losses in 76 games, the Bill Spellman-led cagers possessed a well-rounded scoring combination. Dan Kotuby set the pace for the junior high scorers with 256 points on the season, while Frank Colao and Ed Romanoski followed with 162 and 142 points respectively.

The junior cagers rolled to four consecutive exhibition wins in a row before setting an EC scoring record in their lopsided contest with New Castle's Ben Franklin. Paced by Mark Wilson's 18 markers, the Wolverines scored 73 points to their rival's 40 in the recordbreaker.

George Washington gained revenge, however, as the Prexies inflicted a 40-34 loss on the otherwise unbeaten EC squad.

Hopes for at least a tie in the section ran high until the Wolverines were twice trounced by Hopewell, 42-38 and 70-58. Once again, Dan Kotuby paced the Wolverine scoring attack, netting 38 points for both contests.

Going 12-3 for the season, the eighth grade team, coached by Mr. Joe Cioffi, completely dominated the action in all but three games. Although experiencing one of their poorer years, the eighth graders still posted a successful won and lost mark. George Potter led the team in scoring with a 9.0 average and 135 points. Also in the top scoring ranks were Artie Shakespeare with 97 points and a 6.5 average, and Jim Gerlach, who hit for 64 points and a 4.3 average.

increasing burdens of freshmen studies provide challenges

Encountering heavier schedules as they began planning toward college and career, the class of '72 rapidly became oriented to the last year of junior high. Totaling nearly 400 students, freshmen composed the largest class at Lincoln, assuming active roles in choir, athletics, clubs, and dances. Demonstrating musical interest, over one quarter of the class joined the ninth grade choir. Junior high sports drew many freshmen towards outstanding performance. Opportunities arose for membership in clubs, and both junior and senior high dances welcomed freshmen.

The guidance department administered the Otis Beta IQ test to ninth grade students, marking the first of many examinations to follow. The close of the 68-69 school term found freshmen awaiting the challenges and the privileges they would face upon entering senior high.

officers direct class of '71 through fruitful year

President Bobby Palatka

V. President Ron Atkinson

Secretary Maureen MacDonald

Treasurer Philip Viccari

Sponsor Miss Ann Koziar

Attending senior high pep rallies and eating lunch 6th period were just a few of the privileges sophomores were entitled to as members of senior high. The task of organizing sophomores confronted Miss Ann Koziar, class sponsor. President Bob Palatka, vice-president Ron Atkinson, secretary Maureen MacDonald, and treasurer Phil Viccari quickly adopted plans for their sophomore year. They worked closely with tenth graders to instill class spirit for their first project of selling fruitcakes. Later in the year, sophomores undertook a second project with the candy sale. Generating enthusiasm in their class involvements, they vibrated the same spirit in the clubs in which they participated. A sophomore-sponsored dance during the year became their final project, all three of which provided the Lincoln Echo with additional funds.

Prospective college students planned for the future, taking the National Educational Development Test during March.

By the end of the year, sophomores had proved themselves worthy of the title of senior high students.

With the election of Sam Costa as president, Dennis Tammaro as vice president, Susan DeMark as secretary, and Debra Fotia as treasurer, the class of '70 began their activities. During November, juniors, who labeled their candy sale, "Gangsters," neared their goal of $12,000. Proving themselves to be a class to go down in Lincoln history, they broke tradition by designing new class rings.

Supporting clubs and activities, juniors sold tags boosting their team before football and basketball games, using the funds earned to help their adopted orphan from India.

For the first time, many juniors experienced college boards in May, increasingly becoming aware of new challenges confronting them after high school. Visits to the guidance office became more frequent as juniors explored occupational and college opportunities.

Juniors worked diligently on their prom, "Through the Looking Glass," which became a reality on the evening of May 16.

Passing the class key and turning class rings symbolized the responsibilities that members of the class of 1970 would assume as seniors.

"This school is dedicated to students in preparation for tomorrow's world."

This quotation, inscribed in the main entrance of the Vocational-Technical School, appropriately described the aims and goals of Vo-Tech.

Laboratory classes were emphasized with a varied selection of trades which a student may pursue. Adequate facilities enabled students to develop the skills which were prerequisites for their future occupations.

Academic courses were also included in the Vo-Tech schedule, with students alternating between a week of scholastic subjects and a week of laboratory work.

A total of seven school districts attended Lawrence County's Vocational High School, with approximately 147 students representing Lincoln. 27 sophomores, 55 juniors, and 65 seniors composed Lincoln's delegation.

leadership to seniors

Senior year . . . end of a reality, beginning of a dream, Moments to treasure . . . Remember when . . . I'll never forget the time . . . Embarking on a rainbow of hopes, the final year passed quickly, perhaps too quickly . . . With the theme "Film Follies", the annual senior magazine sale netted $13,309.41 promising a successful 1969 Ellwoodian and beginning senior year.

Highlighting fall activities was the crowning of Susan Laszlo as homecoming queen.

Seniors passed some nostalgic moments at the Senior Dinner Dance, and enjoyed the stinging comments of the opposite sex while giving the toast to the boys and toast to the girls.

The Prom followed as seniors endured the pain and pleasure of their last precious moments together. Finally, on June 3, seniors solemnly participated in graduation and commencement exercises to climax their school days.
